We have Received our First Shipment of VEGETABLE AND FLOWER
SEEDS.

SEASON 1894-95.

The SEEDS will be OPENED OUT as soon as the weather is fair, and in the meantime orders will be booked for execution in the sequence in which they are received as long as the supply lasts.

SEED LISTS

HINTS FOR GARDENING have been issued and may still be obtained on application.

Our Seeds are all tested before being put up in London. They are packed under our own Supervision and the greatest care is exercised to insure protection in transit.

Sowing should be made in fine weather only makes the abrasion more difficult. In the oriental soldier the wild man is hardly shorn, deep, and in his discipline is yet unproved we fully expect that victorious or beaten he will be receding and remorseless.
We do not believe that the so-called "victor" of Western civilization by his work at Amio or on the march in the Japanese character; we are sure it had not in the Chinese and we are confident that the chief who prevails on the dead and living on battle fields will be as conspicuous by his presence as the Grecian crusader by his absence during the engagements of this war.

We do not expect a soldier's coat to conceal the sain, and we fully subscribe to the old maxim that it is true in the end to wage war in the spirit of peace. The award as Knight quately said, "is a sound cure for man's ills" though it is also too often a remedy for worse than the disease it aims at medicating. Still we need not necessarily illustrate the utter depravity of man and current events may possibly give us an opportunity of bringing home this truth to the minds of a few of the more enlightened officials of China and Japan. In the interests of our common humanity we shall solely proclaim and denounce every atrocity of which authentic reports reach our ears, in the faint hope that the fierce light of public opinion will bring to the responsible leaders of both combatants some sense of the baseness of wanton cruelty and the moral turpitude of indiscriminate and unnecessary slaughter.

HONGKONG, SEPTEMBER 1st, 1894.

If we might be allowed to jump into the center of a serious subject over a whimsical quotation, we should cite the advice of the drill sergeant of the old school, "And when the bayonet is well given it is a weapon, and when pulling it out a twist and a twirl so as to make the wound incurable." That we now regard as truculent a precipitately in its ludicrous aspect shows how far we have travelled since the matter of fact callousness of Georgian times.
In the west the sympathetic virtues have invaded the province of war, and are steadily mitigating the severity of that "Moloch of the higher humanity." The pitiless savagery of ancient war has been slowly modified by several influences, among the freest good substituted slavery for extermination; Christianity, after abolishing the inhumanity of making prisoners into gladiators, put an end to the mutilation and to the slavery of the captives of war.
In the crusades it further inserted into the vows of knightly protection to the weak, and tenderness to the vanquished, as well as personal humility and bravery.
What Christianity so well began the modern humanitarianism has continued; poisoned weapons, explosive bullets, and everything that involves unnecessary pain are tabooed; the right and safety of non-combatants are acknowledged, and in the fiercest paroxysm of strife the living mission of the General Cross is universally respected.

This is as it should be. The mitigation of the horrors of war is the first practical move towards its ultimate abolition. In the past, time coming, and long before the social millennium, we believe war will be dislodged from its present power as the most potent means of restoring the balance of nations. Progress, though slow, is visible; at the end of the nineteenth century arbitration was its triumph, and we are now measurably separated from the frame of mind in which Wordsworth fifty years ago triphashed war at:

God's most wretched instrument, In working pure intent, It is arrayed for mortal slaughter, Yea, crucifix is God's daughter.

We however, desire to draw our readers attention to the fact that we are about to contemplate a war between combatants who are animated by the implacable and relentless spirit of enmity. Remorseless cruelty has ever attended Asiatic warfare and will continue to do so as long as the Orientals remain isolated by their hatred of change.
Genghis with his nine sacks of right arm after the battle of Lignitz, Tamerlane with his Balkish pyramid of ninety thousand heads and his wholesale mutilations, the Taipings exterminating who's populations and illustrating the last possibilities of lust and the love of torture examples in point. A惨 estimate of the total loss of life caused by the Taiping rebellion was made by a man and sober engineer; it reached the incredible sum of fifty millions. We are unwilling and unable to endorse figures so appalling, but we confidently believe that better qualities and nobility than those inflicted greater cruelty on the human race than any event recorded in history. Our earnest prayer and desire is that it is the result of the recurrence of this tragedy that in part causes us to view with apprehension the present situation and precipitate into action dormant forces which will deluge a continent with blood.

We glibly talk of China and Japan having entered the family of nations, and some of us are inclined to do so ourselves with the hope that the oriental will modify the spirit of his warfare just as he has modified his belligerent or his diplomatic etiquette. The Roman will remark that if we drive on with a force, and will come back, we fully believe that the present war will illustrate the truth of the observation. The Chinophiles and Chinophobes are wrangling over the horrid carnage which attended the Hong Kong tragedy; each party contends to the immortal honour of its favourite. We should as soon expect to pull the flowers of knowledge from ignorance as to find chivalry and generosity to a man for an Asiatic soldier. In all men the savage lies near the surface and the remnants of civilization and law can soon be rubbed off; discipline
or beaten he will be receding and remorseless.
We do not believe that the
absence during the engagements of this war.

conceal the saint, and we fully subscribe to the old maxim that it is true in the end to
as Knight quately said, "is a sound cure

THE WAR.

ANOTHER JAPANESE DEFEAT.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE "CHUNG KING."

Saturday eve. 1st September.

Another engagement took place at Pingyang on the 27th ult. in which the Japanese troops were utterly defeated, the number of their killed being five thousand.

Up to the 23rd instant 557 Chinese residents left Holland on the 8th and another on the 20th instant to reinforce the troops in the Dutch Indies.

CHINESE OP. BRATIONS IN KOREA.

The following was received from Korea on the 28th ult. by the Envoy from its correspondent now following the Chinese army in Korea, with regard to which we (The Daily News) learn it is more or less confirmed by official telegrams.

On the 13th instant the advance corps of the Shing and Yung divisions of 5,000 men of all arms met the Japanese troops holding the passes leading to Pingyang. The enemy was immediately attacked and driven past Pingyang, which fell into the Chinese hands. The great mass of Koreans flocked to the Chinese standards and the Chinese advanced to the front. On the 14th instant the army at Pingyang was reinforced by 4,000 odd Chinese troops and on the 15th advance was made to attack the Japanese troops, who had been held in reserve at Chongju. The Chinese following the advancing corps of the Shing division made a dash at the city, which was captured without difficulty. After the capture several batteries of artillery (28 guns) were placed in action, and when the idea of the Japanese could not get off, the Chinese troops shot them out of cover.

On the afternoon of the 16th the army was reinforced by over 13,000 men and on the 17th the Japanese were fully attacked; the latter making two efforts to defeat the Chinese and so to turn back the Chinese. The former effort was repulsed, the latter was repulsed, and the Japanese were driven out of the city. The Chinese had thus won a victory which was fully as brilliant as that of the Takao.
